

THE PANTHER PRESS

Spring 2026

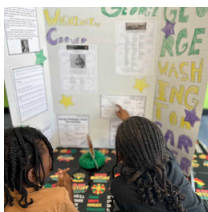

A Quarterly Newsletter by Sierra School of Solano

We've got a spring in our step as we've reached the end of our third quarter, and we are very happy to share some encouraging news about student progress!

This has been a standout period of growth for our students. We've witnessed meaningful and consistent improvement in behavior, self-regulation, effort, and classroom engagement across the board. The students have shown real resilience and a growing ability to make positive choices—even on the tough days.

The quarter was filled with several memorable and uplifting events that brought out the best in our community.

- Our school wide recognition of Black History Month was successful in teaching about our past and present heroes that the students showcased in an exhibition.

DIABLO VALLEY COLLEGE

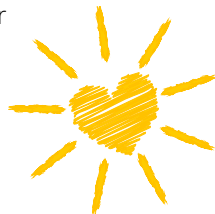

- Transition students were motivated and encouraged by their tour of Mount Diablo Community College. They participated in interviews and are eager to take positive steps toward their future goals.

- Multiple classroom shout-outs have highlighted improved interactions and behavior, making them feel more like a team and creating an environment they want to be a part of.

These experiences didn't just feel good—they produced real results. Teachers report fewer disruptions, more students staying on task independently, stronger peer relationships, and noticeably more pride in their own progress.

We are genuinely proud of our students and their commitment to improving. This kind of growth doesn't happen overnight—it takes commitment from students, patience and skill from our staff, and the steady support you provide at home. We look forward to celebrating even more successes with you as we move into the final quarter of the year.
